

BRITISH BORING FURTHER INTO SUPPORT LINES

Have Taken 2,000 Yards of Support Trench.

GERMANS REPULSED

Haig Reports That Enemy Counter Attacks Failed.

BULLETIN.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) British Headquarters in France, Nov. 27.—The British have made another advance in the Cambrai area and according to the latest reports have worked their way forward through the northwestern part of Fontaine Notre Dame, which they captured at the beginning of the attack last week but subsequently lost.

They are now said to have advanced almost to the main street which runs east and west through the center of the town.

BULLETIN.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) Washington, Nov. 27.—Two American soldiers were killed and five severely wounded in artillery combat with the Germans Nov. 20, General Pershing reports.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) London, Nov. 27.—British troops have repulsed another German counter attack at the northeast corner of the Bourlon Woods west of Cambrai, according to an official report today from Field Marshal Haig.

British Army Headquarters in France, Nov. 27.—British troops including some from London last night continued to bore their way through the Hindenburg support line west of Moeuvres. There was vigorous fighting at close quarters in this region, and as a result the British were today in possession of a further section of support trenches 2,000 yards in length.

The British advance in the last few days had made this section of the line virtually untenable and the Germans were forced to withdraw when pressed by a new attack.

Fighting was renewed today between Bourlon Wood and Cambrai about Fontaine Notre Dame, where the Germans were still installed and continued to use machine guns from roofs and windows.

Germany's coup in Italy is looked upon as an attempt to extricate herself from her difficult position on the west front.

French gains are referred to an increased artillery activity is mentioned on the portion of the front where American troops are stationed.

With reference to the Italian situation, the statement says: "The morale of the Italian forces is improving daily and, while the situation is not only free from critical aspects the defensive measures appear adequate."

In Palestine, the communique says, the British forces are advancing rapidly on Jerusalem.

COUNCIL AFTER WATER COMPANY IN FIRE MATTER

City Commissioners to Investigate Pressure Trouble.

WILL CUT RENTAL

Determined to Put a Stop to Condition of Fire Protection.

The all-absorbing topic under discussion at the regular weekly meeting of the city commissioners this morning was water, and water pressure, and the lack of it. Mayor Schmidt announced that steps had already been taken to probe the matter to the bottom. The lack of adequate water pressure at the fire on Sunday morning, when the Wagner garage and the People's church were burned, has aroused to an extent that city fathers to keep on the subject until there is a definite promise of a better condition of things.

The water company's franchise provides that the company shall furnish adequate pressure during a fire to throw water from six leads of hose to a height of 100 feet. The pressure Sunday was so weak that it would not throw water from one lead of hose that high, and when the firemen tried to throw water to the ceiling of the People's church from the floor of that building, an estimated distance of about twenty-five feet, from the third lead of hose that was connected, the water would not reach and, consequently, the church

HEART WAS BROKEN BUT SHE WOULD NOT TELL HUSBAND, MRS. DE SAULLES TESTIFIED

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

Mineola, N. Y., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Bianca De Saulles returned to the witness stand today when her trial on a charge of killing her divorced husband, John L. De Saulles, was resumed. It had been believed that because of her weakened condition the cross examination would be put off several days.

Letters purporting to show she was living in a state of domestic tranquillity prior to her divorce, were read, "I flattered him in an effort to hold him," said Mrs. De Saulles.

She testified that she was "very unhappy" and "very hurt" over an incident in London where De Saulles would not permit her to stay at the hotel where he stopped.

"But you said nothing of that letter, did you?" asked Mr. Weeks. He had just read another affectionate letter written by Mrs. De Saulles to her husband.

"My heart was broken when I wrote that letter, but I would not tell him so," replied the witness.

POLO MEN ORGANIZE A BANK TO SUCCEED BARBER BROS. BANK

Prominent and Wealthy Men Are in the New Organization.

TO BE STATE BANK

Polo is to have a new bank to succeed the Barber Brothers' Banking company, which was wrecked by the financial misfortunes and speculations of its owner, Bryant H. Barber. The new bank, which will be a State bank, will be in operation by the first of the year. If possible the Barber bank building will be purchased by the directors of the new bank. This information was given out to a reporter from the Dixon Evening Telegraph today by George Dick of Polo, one of the organizers. Among the men who will be identified with the new Polo State bank, all of whom are prominent and wealthy residents of Polo or vicinity, are:

William Plum, Will Typer, George Dick, Ross Hendrick, Charles D. Coffman, Bert Coffman, Upton Powell, James Hamilton, A. M. Johnson and others.

Every man connected with the plan for the organization of the new Polo bank is a prominent and representative citizen, and they have gone so far with their plans that there is no question about their going through with them.

Ask for Charter. The men who will be directors in the new bank have already applied to the state of Illinois for a charter.

Capital Stock. The capital stock of the new bank probably will be set at $100,000, although there is a possibility that the figure will be limited to $75,000. Mr. Dick stated today that the bank would be running by January 1 unless some unforeseen obstruction arises.

Buy Barber Bank.

The stockholders in the new bank will make an effort to secure the handsome Barber bank building for their institution. When the building is sold by the estate they will endeavor to purchase it.

BRINTON BOUGHT FIRST STAMPS

The Red Cross committee for Lee county, of which Mrs. J. E. Traber is chairman, started the sale today of Red Cross seals, receiving bids for the first five sold. Col. W. B. Brinton bid $25, and received them. Others bidding in the order named were: George Boynton, Mrs. J. W. Crawford, Miss Anna Geisenheimer and J. E. Traber. T. W. Clayton, who has been attending the Engineering Officers' training school at Fort Leavenworth, for three months will be home today expected to return to Dixon today to await call.

VAST RUSSIAN UNION CONTROLS YEAR'S CROP

REVOLUTIONISTS HAVE FAILED AT ADMINISTRATION EFFORT.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.) London, Nov. 27.—The Russian revolutionists have made a "ghastly failure" of their attempt at administration, according to the Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post, written under date of Saturday. He adds:

"Gen. Kaledine's hetman of united Cossackdom is in secure possession with trustworthy and disciplined troops of all arms, of all those regions of European Russia that produced a harvest this year and is rapidly capturing those remaining territories upon which Russia relies for daily bread."

"A vast union under the name of the 'Southeastern Union' has been formed. It includes the Don territory a great part of Little Russia, the lower Volga provinces and Turkestan, the area which feeds all Russia. This union is extending and promises to cover the Siberian corn land."

RECEIVERS IN STATEMENT ON BARBER'S BANK

Statement of Assets and Liabilities Issued Today.

SHORTAGE SEEMS LESS

Further Developments May Change the Situation, However.

Each day brings a new aspect for the Barber Brothers & Co. bank case of Polo, and today, things are looking better for the depositors in the institution formerly owned by Bryant Barber, who suicided by leaping into Rock river from the Grand Detour bridge late on the afternoon of November 16, and whose body has not yet been recovered.

In a statement issued today from the office of Attorney R. L. Bracken, and signed by the receivers of the bank and others who are familiar with the financial condition of the estate, it appears that the Barber estate may not be so badly insolvent as was at first suspected. The statement of assets and liabilities, as listed in the following statement, shows a shortage of $109,628.36.

May Change. It must be realized, however, that this situation may change and will change if further liabilities in the shape of obligations are discovered. The statement, in some respects, shows estimated figures, and on this basis, the estate would pay out close to 90 cents on the dollar.

The statement follows: To the Depositors of the Banking House of Barber Bros. & Co.:

In order to meet the sensational and in many instances baseless rumors, now current in this community, the undersigned have made so far as was possible an investigation of the assets and liabilities of the Barber bank.

The value of the visible personal property is certain and that of the real estate may be estimated with reasonable certainty. The following is a statement which the undersigned believe to be correct:

Assets.
Cash on hand and in other banks	$ 126,890 63
Promissory notes (including those secured by mortgages) all good	502,047 04
Miscellaneous farm equipment and other tangible personal property	10,000 00

House-Warming.

The members of the Current Topics club held a very pleasant evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hart in Palmyra. It was a house warming affair as Mr. and Mrs. Hart have just built their new home in the country and the members of the club enjoyed to the full the opportunity to inspect it. About twenty were there and enjoyed a delicious supper early in the evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Grant—A Son.
Rev. and Mrs. Frederick C. Grant of Evanston are receiving congratulations over the birth of a son, Robert Meuen, on Sunday, Nov. 25th. Both mother and son are doing well. Rev. Grant was the former rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church and Dixon friends will hasten to add their congratulations. Mr. Grant quite characteristically says "he's the cutest little chap I ever saw."

Give Loyal Aid To U. S.

That the Philippine Islanders are just as busy at Red Cross work, the making of khaki in factories, and in the training of troops to give aid to the mother country, the U. S. A., when called upon is an interesting fact that strikes most of us with surprise. Of course it should be so, but we just hadn't thought about it. Mrs. Mark Keller made it quite plain in a most interesting and instructive paper on the Philippines read Monday afternoon before the members of Chapter A. C. III, P. E. O. Mrs. Keller also told of the early history of the islands, pointed out places of interest on a map she had prepared, told of the resources of the islands, and of the advancement made in educational and other lines since their acquisition by the United States during the presidency of McKinley, and gave many other very interesting facts.

The paper was followed by some interesting letters on the national convention recently held in Omaha. These were read by Miss Lydia Garnett, the secretary.

Miss Grace Judd gave a very pretty piano number, one of a Norwegian suite by Torjussen.

After interesting current topics, presented by each member, the chapter adjourned.

Rev. Ralph Rarick, who ended on Sunday evening a series of successful revival services at the Brethren church, left Monday for Chicago and from there will go to Gerard, Ill., where on Thanksgiving day he will wed Miss Dinna Herschberger. As there are a number of former Dixon people living in Gerard who have relatives in Dixon the affair leaked out while Rev. Rarick was here, much to his discomfort, and friends had an opportunity to offer congratulations. The new home will be made in Chicago.

Members of the Dixon Spanish American War Veterans and its Auxiliary were most delightfully entertained last evening in Sterling, where they were invited to participate in the festivities of the Sterling camp in celebration of the 19th anniversary of the mustering out of Sixth Illinois Regiment and of Co. A banquet of excellence was served during the evening. Attendance of members from the old Co. E and from the Sterling U. S. W. V. was large.

Start Sale of Seals.

Today Mrs. Traber, county chairman for the sale of Red Cross seals, and her committee, composed of Mrs. L. W. Newcomer, Mrs. Gullion, Mrs. Wilbur Leake and Mrs. Edw. Staples, and Mrs. Harry L. Emerson, will start the sale of Red Cross seals which ten thousand men and women are beginning throughout the state. The personnel of this gigantic sales organization is so unusual that it deserves special mention. Included in this "war army for home service" are the most prominent physicians, club women, educators, bankers, lawyers, labor leaders, ministers and lay workers in the state. Nothing to compare with it has ever been seen in a Red Cross seal campaign in any state. These men and women are giving freely of their time, energy and influence to the end that in every Illinois county there may be gathered together a fund for intensive and well planned work against tuberculosis next year.

They know the need for this work. They know that France has become literally honeycombed with tuberculosis since the war began. They know that England, Belgium and the other nations at war are overwhelmed with the increase of tuberculosis both in the armies and in the civilian population. They know that more than half of the first thirty soldiers from General Pershing's army have been sent home on sick leave, suffering from tuberculosis. They know that more than five per cent of the Illinois men rejected for service in the national army were rejected because of tuberculosis. They realize that it means we have approximately 300,000 consumptives in Illinois. They know that we must fight this disease at home now or it will needlessly kill men and women in every Illinois community.

So we say that today marks an epoch in the history of Illinois. The statewide movement begun in this Red Cross seal campaign will continue during the war and after. With the pennies and the dimes and the dollars gathered together by this sales force of 10,000 of the social, civic and commercial leaders in every Illinois county, this state will begin early in 1918 to grapple and grapple effectively with the disease which has killed more persons in Europe than bullets during the present war.

Many Met Mrs. Hoffman.

The club women of Dixon not only had the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Hoffman of Chicago speak of conditions in Europe, but also had the pleasure of meeting her personally, as, before the lecture, a receiving line was formed of the Phidian officers and Mrs. M. R. Forsyth, president, presented each one to Mrs. Hoffman as they entered. Mrs. Hoffman is the sister of Harry Bischoff, whose wife was before her marriage, Miss Pauline Lord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lord of this city, and it was through the offices of Mrs. Lord that Dixon women were able to hear such an interesting lecture. Mrs. Hoffman has a dear little daughter of four years and she related that some times her husband would take her with him on his visits to the prison camps and the prisoners would weep at the sight of her, bringing as she did thoughts of their own little ones at home whom they might not see for a long, long time, and they would beg to kiss her hands, her dress, even.

Mrs. Hoffman had with her many interesting articles made by the men in these prison camps, who would go mad were they not employed. She was wonderful wood carvings, a paper knife that one would think ivory at first glance, which was made of a soap-bone; jewelry fashioned by the prisoners; embroidered, etc.

Miss Gorham Honored.

Miss Marie Gorham was honored Monday evening at the second of a series of pre-nuptial affairs her friends are giving. This was given by Miss Bess Blackburn at her home, 822 Galena avenue, and the evening was a most delightful one. A two-course luncheon, with places for 20, was served, the decorations for which were red, white and blue festoons over the table. Thanksgiving place cards and favors, and red carnations forming the centerpiece. At the beginning of the luncheon Miss Gorham was presented with a box containing a whole shower of handkerchiefs. A mock wedding, music, and dancing created diversion after the luncheon. Mrs. Frank Malone of Rochelle was an out of town guest.

With Dixon Relatives.

The shower was a miscellaneous one and many handsome gifts, among them cut glass, china, and kitchen utensils, were presented Miss Harvey. A delicious supper was served and Victrola music enjoyed during the evening.

Training Sea-Lions.

The nature of the sea-lion is peculiar. He has to be petted and encouraged at every stage of a lesson. The trainer knows that the animal is very jealous of others who get too much of the limelight; quarrels among a troupe frequently follow. If a sea-lion is not in his proper position the act will not work. But most important of all, it is necessary to keep repeating a trick until a sea dog performs it readily. How long this sometimes takes only the young men who do this work can tell.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

New York World: While razing the old Monastery of the Holy Cross in Wismar, Mecklenburg, two months ago an old bible was found in which was a remarkable prophecy regarding the present world war. It was written in 1701 by one of the monks on parchment that is now yellow and seared with age.

It is now on exhibition in a glass case in the city hall of Wismar. So much publicity has been given to the prophecy, in the papers of Germany that thousands have flocked to Wismar to see it.

The prophecy not only gives the cause of the war, but also indicates the countries engaged. Up to the present it has been marvelously accurate. It does not definitely state what nation will be victorious but indicates how long the war will last, when the decisive battle will be fought and when and where peace will come.

A translation of the writing on the parchment is as follows:

"Lord have mercy on thy people despite the fact that they are turning more and more away from thee; that they are destroying thy monasteries and cloisters and forgetting thee. A time will come in Europe when these people will feel the weight of thy hand, when malignity and hatred will rule. It will be at a time when the papal seat will be vacant, and the conflagration will come as the result of the murder of a prince. Seven nations will rise against the eagle with one head and the eagle with two heads. The birds will defend themselves furiously and viciously with their talons, and their wings will protect their peoples. A prince from their very midst, a sovereign who mounts his horse from the wrong side will be encompassed by a wall of enemies. His slogan will be 'Onward with God.'"

"There will be wagons without horse, and fiery dragons will fly through the air dropping fire and sulphur and destroying cities and villages. The people will turn to God. This terrible war will last three years and five months. The time will come when food can neither be sold nor bought and bread will be carefully distributed. The seas will be tinged with blood and men will lie in wait under the waves for their prey.

"The people of the Seven Stars," supposedly America, "will attack the ring of steel and suddenly fall upon the bearded nation. In the rear and round it in twain. The whole of the lower Rhine will tremble, but nevertheless will endure to the end.

"The land in the west will be one vast desolation, and the land in the ocean will, with its king, be crushed and suffer all the pangs of the hungry. The land of the bearded people will still endure for a long time to come, and following the war the world will be united in one great brotherhood.

"The victor will carry a cross, and between four small cliffs and four steeples of equal height the decisive battle will be fought. Between two Linden trees the victor will fall upon his knees before his army, lift his hands to heaven and thank God. Following this all unordained will disappear: the indecent dances that prevailed before the war will be seen no more, and God will reign in church, state and family.

"The war will commence when the grain is ripened and will reach its height when the cherries bloom for the third time. Peace will be consummated by the prince in time for the Christmas mass."

The foregoing is evidently one of the ingenious German methods of influencing the public mind to believe that Germany will be victorious. In all probability the prophecy was never written before 1915, but it is published for what it is worth.

Saturday Evening Post: The income tax now applies to a great number of citizens who have heretofore been exempt. If you are unmarried and your income is one thousand dollars or more, or if you are married and your income is two thousand dollars or more, you are required after the close of this year, to make a return to the collector of internal revenue for your district.

The law requires a return from those whose net income is one thousand or two thousand dollars. Probably a good many people heretofore have drawn the line between gross and net income with unreasonable liberality to themselves. But on all incomes below ten thousand dollars the new taxes bear very lightly. Dodging them in war time is about as comfortable an act as a citizen can perform. One of the smart things in the Civil war was the way in which citizens stepped up and paid their income taxes when they could have dodged them if they had wanted to do so. We expect that chapter to be repeated in this war.

If you pay anybody wages, rent or other fixed income amounting to eight hundred dollars or more, the law now requires you to report the fact to the internal revenue collector.

Look over your budget. If your income is a thousand for the head of a family—or if you are paying anyone else an income amounting to eight hundred dollars a year, be prepared directly after the first of the year, to drop a post card to the collector of internal revenue for your district, asking for a blank on which to make a report.

Detroit Free Press: One of the foremost railroads of the country has recently issued a statement regarding the losses incurred by the shipper in falling properly to pack their goods to withstand wear and tear of transportation. According to the estimates compiled by this company, no less than $2,000,000 has been lost each year through a pennywise and pound-foolish policy on the part of American shippers. Since the war there has been a striking increase in such losses due to attempts to economize, weak and inefficient packing being used for even long distance shipments. While this question has been raised chiefly through the exigencies of war time conditions, it represents a defect which for many years has counted seriously against the expansion of American trade abroad. While ocean transportation calls for more care in packing than is exercised in domestic shipments, it is a contention of foreign interests that American goods are seldom received in the same good condition that applies to those furnished by many competing countries. This complaint has been registered principally from South American countries, and while it seems a small detail there is a likelihood that it has had more or less bearing on the development of trade where competition has been strong with European nations. When a large railroad raises its voice against the careless way in which goods consigned over its lines are packed and takes the pains to show by statistics the heavy economic loss incurred through this source, manufacturers and jobbers in this and other states may well heed the warning.

Emporia Gazette: For reasons other than the possibility of restoring the five cent loaf, Herbert Hoover's experiments in Philadelphia with "war bread" will be watched with interest. It may be the Philadelphia experiments will prove to the satisfaction of the nation what food experts, physicians and students of economic problems have been unable to show, that, for reasons of stomach as well as pocketbook, America cannot continue to throw away more than half of its wheat.

White flour crapt into popularity in this country because of the great demand for pastry. No other country in the world uses as much finely bolted flour. Bread made from white flour is expensive as well as money. But year after year, the amount of whole wheat and even graham bread eaten in the United States remains strikingly small. We raise much rye, and rye bread has been the sustenance of the peasant classes of Europe, but rye bread has been used in Kansas mainly for the concealment of the slice of hamburger cheese that was one of the components of the late but not lamented Dutch lunch. Few women know more than to economize, weak and inefficient packing being used for even long distance shipments. While this question has been raised chiefly through the exigencies of war time conditions, it represents a defect which for many years has counted seriously against the expansion of American trade abroad. While ocean transportation calls for more care in packing than is exercised in domestic shipments, it is a contention of foreign interests that American goods are seldom received in the same good condition that applies to those furnished by many competing countries. QUALIFIES WHERE QUALITY STANDARDS ARE STRICTEST Calumet Baking Powder is now used in the Army and Navy. For years it has been used by an army of housewives—and that army enlists thousands of recruits every year.

The Calumet is a submarine type of the United States Navy, fighting submarine bases.

Housewives use Calumet because it produces best results. They judge it by results entirely. Government experts selected Calumet for this same reason—and other reasons too. They looked back of the results. They demanded purity in Baking Powder, and purity in bakings, as well as surety of results.

They selected Calumet because they could secure these desirable qualities—and were certain

LET'S STOP THIS.

It is well enough for the United States government to treat prisoners of war humanely and with a consideration which will give the German government no moral excuse for not treating those of our men they capture at least in such a way as to preserve their lives and health. We can hope for little more from a government which is without conscience or moral standards in war.

But it seems to us that the established military usage of the United States which, aside from allotting prisoners the substantial comforts and necessities of life, also turns over to them the pay of United States officers and men according to their ranks, is carrying the spirit of Christianity a little too far with an utterly hardened and inhuman enemy.

One of the prisoners in an American camp, not designated as an officer either, recently wrote home to his wife that his accumulated savings not only would permit his retirement from the German navy, but would provide him a capital with which to set up a small business after the war.

Returning good for evil may be a workable doctrine if applied indiscriminately between individuals—and it may not. Returning good for evil in the case of organized kultur is throwing pearls before swine. There is a point where charity becomes softness. There is a point where a Samaritan may become an ass.

We believe the United States government has reached exactly that point when it pays a handsome salary to prisoners and officer prisoners that will enable them to set themselves up in business after the war, perhaps amalgamating their Samaritan fund with the proceeds of loot deliberately stolen in the invaded countries, sent home and sold. Billions of dollars worth of property have been taken in this way from the peoples now lying prostrate under the Prussian heel.

This treatment of Germans will not aid the condition of Americans in captivity. Nor will it be reciprocated to any degree, we may be sure. That is not the Prussian way. And while we are financing the brutes who have laid Europe waste, multitudes of innocent people are suffering the last agonies of existence on the Golgotha provided for them by the beneficiaries of our asinine chivalry.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

WEAK WATER PRESSURE.

If the charges of the city are true, and the water pressure at Sunday's fire was so poor as to be responsible for a large part of the fire damage, some drastic action should be taken which would settle for all time the question of water pressure, for since the memory of man there has been dispute and charge and counter charge in Dixon over water pressure, and at nearly every fire of consequence the same question comes up again.

There are two ways of getting the pressure. One way is to get the pressure from the water company's pumping station, and the other way is to get it from a steam engine which will pump its own water.

There are those who say that sufficient water pressure produced by the water company would be too great a strain on the water mains and connections all over the city, and it is true that great and long continued pressure is sometimes responsible for leaks in various parts of the city.
However, no lives have ever been lost here by too much water pressure that we have heard anything about.

Anything that lowers the fire fighting efficiency of the city boosts fire insurance premiums out of sight. Insurance premiums are high enough in Dixon, and they may go higher. They will never be any lower so long as the water pressure is so weak that a stream of water cannot be thrown from the floor to the ceiling of a church, or from the edge of a roof over the peak of a roof, or so weak that it will not break a window pane at a distance of fifteen feet.

We have had discussions in city council, for years gone by. We have had investigating committees, and a lot of things. Now let's have a little real action. Let something be done which will insure water pressure, no matter what the initial cost, for, within reason, the initial cost will be insignificant compared to the saving in the end.

THE POLO TRAGEDY.

Polo is going through an experience that is causing the good people of that city to lose faith in human kind. The failure of the Barber bank is a real tragedy, just as all bank failures are, and it means the difference between comfort and poverty to many people.

The people of Polo have trusted the Barber bank, and the looting of that institution by the suicide banker blasts a reputation that stood through generations of the Barber family for many years as representing everything that was fine and trustworthy. No wonder the man could not face his friends when he found that his misuse of their money had robbed them.
It is at least something in his favor that he was not brazen enough to attempt to justify his action.

COUNCIL MEETING

was destroyed.

The franchise also provides that when the company fails to furnish adequate pressure, the city may reduce the hydrant rental by one-half, and now the city officials propose to deduct such a sum from the next hydrant rental payment, which will come in April. The regular rental for the half year would be $3,000. They propose to pay the company $1,500.

It was announced that the two men injured in the fire Sunday will be properly recompensed for their losses.

To Buy Fire Engine?

It was suggested by Commissioner Fred Dana that if the company cannot furnish adequate pressure that the city buy a steam pump and furnish its own pressure.

Ring Fire Bell.

At the suggestion of Commissioner Dysart, the fire bell will be rung hereafter when there is a fire alarm. Commissioner Dysart contended that it was due to property owners that some sort of an alarm be given, so that they may have an opportunity to inquire the location of the fire.

Business Men Incensed.

Commissioner Smith said that Dixon business men were incensed, and justly so, over the poor water service at fires, and that the fire insurance companies would raise their rates considerably unless better fire protection can be assured.

Visit Water Station.

The council, acting as a committee of the whole, visited the pumping station of the water company yesterday and made an effort to locate the cause of the trouble, but were not extremely successful. It was announced at the council meeting this morning that the investigation will now proceed to the higher officers of the company, who will be called upon today for an explanation.

BRITISH GAIN GROUND

More German Defenses Taken in Region of Bullecourt.

Hard Fighting Still Continues for Possession of Bourlon Village—French Hold Gains.

British Headquarters in France, Nov. 27.—The British are in possession of still more enemy trench defenses in the region of Bullecourt, the Germans having been forced to withdraw somewhat at several points to rearrange their positions.

A considerable number of German communication trenches had become untenable as a result of the British drive into the enemy front lines last week, and the Germans abandoned these for more favorable ground.

Hard fighting still continues for the possession of Bourlon village, with the British holding the upper hand.

Paris, Nov. 27.—Violent artillery firing in Belgium and north of the Chemin des Dames is reported in the official statement.

The day report stated the French were organizing the ground they captured in the Verdun region. The later communication adds that enemy concentrations north of the new lines were caught under the fire of French batteries and dispersed.

The artillery fighting also is spirited in this sector.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—According to the official announcement the town of Bourlon, in the Cambrai area, is still in German hands.

On the Verdun front, between Samogneux and Beaumont, the French attacked on a front of four kilometers (2 1/2 miles).

The statement says the attack broke down in the German defense zone.

CHAPTER XII.

The Brave Buckaroo.

Boise, Ida., Dec. 23.

Brave Buckaroo—I wonder if you ever in your whole life got a Christmas present? I've been cultivating the Louise of me, and here are the first fruits of my endeavor—I guess that's the way they say it. I've spent so much time sitting by mommie when she's asleep and I get tired of reading all the time, so a nurse in a ward—mommie has a room to herself, of course, but not a special nurse, because I can do a lot of the little things. Well, the nurse taught me how to hemstitch. So I got some silk and made some nice soft neckerchiefs—one for you and one for me.

This one I made last. I didn't want your eagle eyes seeing all the bobbly stitches on the first one. I hope you like it. Ward, every stitch stands for a thought of the hills and our good times. I've brought Minerva back to life, and I try to play my old pretends sometimes. But they always break up into pieces. I'm not a kid now, you see. And life is a lot different when you get into it, isn't it?

Mommie doesn't seem to get much better. I'm worried about her. She seems to have let go, somehow. She never talks about the ranch much or even worries about whether Phoebe is keeping the windows washed. She talks about when she was a little girl and about when she and daddy were first married. It sets on my nerves to see how she has slipped out of everyday life. The nurse says that's common, though, in sickness. She says I could go home and look after things for a week or so just as well as not. She says mommie would be all right. But I hate to leave her.

I'm awfully homesick for a good old ride on Blue. I miss him terribly. Have you seen anything of the cave folks lately? Seems like I'm clear out of the world. I hate town, anyway, and a hospital is the last for dimness. Even the Louise of me is getting ready to do something awful if I have to stay much longer. Mommie sleeps most of the time. I believe they hope her with something. She doesn't have that awful pain so bad. So I don't have anything to do but sit around and read and sew and wait for her to wake up and want something.

And this is Christmas, almost. I wonder what you'll be doing. Say, Ward, if you want to be a perfect jewel of a man send me some of that jerky you've got hanging at the head of your bunk. I swiped some that last time I was there. It would taste mighty good to me now, after all this hospital truck.

Well, a merry Christmas, Pal-o-mine, and here's hoping you and mommie and I will be eating turkey together at the Wolverine when next Christmas comes. Nummy-nun! Wouldn't that taste good, though?

Now remember and write a whole tablet full to BILLY LOUISE.

Phoebe put that letter on the mantel over the fireplace the day after Christmas.

Billy Louise refrained from expecting any reply until after New Year's; then she began to look for a letter, and when the days passed and brought her no word her moods changed often to the weather.

Ward's literary efforts along about that time consisted of cutting notches in the window sill beside his bunk.

On the day when the stage driver gave Billy Louise's letter to Phoebe Ward cut a deeper, wider notch, thinking that day was Christmas. Under the notch he scratched a word with the point of his knife. It had four letters, and it told eloquently of the state of mind he was in.

The letter gathered dust upon the mantel down at the Wolverine. When the postmark was more than two weeks old another letter came, and Phoebe laid it on the first one with fingers that trembled a little. Phoebe had a letter of her own that day. Both were thin, and the addresses were more scrawly than usual. Phoebe's Indian instinct warned her that something was amiss.

This was Ward's letter:

Oh, God, Ward, mommie's dead. She died last night. I thought she was asleep till the nurse came in at 5 o'clock. I'm all alone and I don't know what to do. I wish you could come, but if you don't get this right away, I'll see you at the ranch. I'm coming home as soon as I can. Oh, Ward, I hate life and everything.

BILLY LOUISE.

Please Ward, stay at the ranch till I come. I want to see you. I feel as if you're the only friend I've got left, now mommie's gone. She looked so peaceful when they took her away—and so strange. I didn't belong to her any more. I felt as if I didn't know her at all—and there is such an awful gap in my life—maybe you'll understand. You always do.

The day that letter was written Ward drew a plan of the house he meant to build some day, with a wide porch on the front, where a hammock would swing comfortably.

He had no presentiment of Billy's need of him, which was just as well, since he was absolutely powerless to help her.

Billy Louise, having arrived unexpectedly on the stage, pulled off her fur lined mittens and put her chilled hands before the snapping blaze in the fireplace. Her eyes were tired and sunken, and her mouth drooped pitifully at the corners, but aside from that she did not seem much changed from the girl who had left the ranch two months and more before.

"I'll take a cup of tea, Phoebe, but I'm not a bit hungry," she said. "I ate just before I left town. How have you been, Phoebe?"

"We been fine. We been so sorry for you."

"Never mind that now, Phoebe. I'd rather not talk about it. Has anybody been here lately?"

"Charlie Fox, he come las' week—mebby week before las'. Marthy, she got rheumatis in her knee. Charlie, he say she been pretty bad one night. I guess she's better now. I tol' I wash for her if he brings me clo'es, but he says he wash them clo'es himself. I guess Charlie pretty good to that old lady. He's awful pitte, that feller is."

"Yes, he is. I'll go up and see her when I get rested a little. I feel tired to death somehow. Has Ward been around lately?"

"Ward, he ain't been here for long time. I guess mebbe it's been six weeks I ain't seen him. Las' time he was here he wrote that letter. He ain't come no more."

Billy Louise in the last few months had tried to picture herself alone, with mommie gone. Her imagination was too alive and saw too clearly the possibilities for her never to have dwelt upon this very crisis in her life. But whenever she had tried to think what it would be like she had always pictured Ward beside her, shielding her from dreary details and lightening her burden with his whimsical gentleness. She had felt sure that Ward would ride down every week for news of her, and she had expected to find him there. Billy Louise should come or send for waiting for her after that last letter. Whatever could be the matter? Had he left the country?

"Has—Anybody Been Here Lately?"

Billy Louise's faith had compromised definitely with her doubts of him. Guilty or innocent, she would be his friend always. That was the condition her faith had laid down challengingly before her doubts. But unless he were innocent and proved it to her she would never marry him, no matter how much she loved him. That was the concession her faith had made to her doubts.

Billy Louise had a wise little brain for all she idealized life and her surroundings out of all proportion to reality. She told herself that if she married Ward with her doubts alive her misery would be far greater than if she gave him up, except as a friend. Of course her ideals stepped in there with an impracticable compromise. She brought back the Ward Warren of her "pretend" life. She dreamed of him as a mutely adoring friend who stood and worshiped her from afar and because of his sins could not cross the line of friendship.

If he were a rustler she would shield him and save him, if that were possible. He would love her always—Billy Louise could not conceive of Ward transferring his affections to another less exacting woman—and he would be grateful for her friendship. She could build long, lovely scenes where friendliness was put to the front bravely, while love hid behind the mask and only peeped out through the eyes now and then. She did not, of course, plan all this in sober reason; she just dreamed it with her eyes open.

Some one came upon the doorstep and stood there for a moment, stamping snow off his feet. Billy Louise caught her breath and waited, her eyes veiled with her lashes and shining expectantly. A little color came into her cheeks. Ward had been delayed somehow, but he was coming now because she needed him and he wanted her—

It was only John Pringle, heavy bodied, heavy minded, who came in and squeaked the door shut behind him. Billy Louise gave him a glance and dropped her head back on the red cushion. "Hello, John!" she greeted tonelessly.

John grinned, embarrassed between his pleasure at seeing Billy Louise and his pity for her trouble. His white teeth showed a little under his scraggy, breath-frosted mustache.

"Hello! You got back, hey? She's purty cold again. Seems like it's going to storm some more." He pulled off his mittens and tugged at the ice dangling at the corners of his lips. "You come on stage, hey? I bet you freeze." He went over and stood with his back to the fire, his leathery brown hands clasped behind him, his face still undecided as to the most suitable emotion to reveal. "Well, how you like town, hey? No good, I guess. You got plenty trouble now. Phoebe and me, we stick by you long as you want us to."

"I know you will, John." Billy Louise bit her lips against a sudden impulse to tears. It was not Ward, but the crude sympathy of this old halfbreed was more to her than all the expensive flowers that had been stacked upon mommie's coffin.

She picked up the two letters she had written Ward, brushed off the dust and eyed them hesitatingly. It certainly was queer that Ward had not ridden down for some word from her. She hesitated, then threw the thin letter into the fire. Its message was no longer of urgent, poignant need. Billy Louise drew a long breath when the grief laden lines crumbled quickly and went flying up the wide throat of the chimney. The other letter she pinched between her thumbs and fingers. She smiled a little to herself. Ward would like to get that. She had a swift vision of him standing over there by the window and reading it with those swift, shutting glances. She remembered how she had begun it—"Brave Buckaroo"—and her cheeks turned pink. He should have it when he came. Something had kept him away. He would come just as soon as he could. She laid the letter back upon the mantel and set a china cow on it to keep it safe there. Then she turned brightly and began to set the table for Phoebe and John and herself and came near setting a fourth place for Ward, she was so sure he would come as soon as he could. Mommie used to say that if you set a place for a person that person would come and eat with you in spirit if not in reality.

Phoebe glanced at her pityingly when she saw her hesitating with the fourth plate in her hands. Phoebe thought that Billy Louise had unconsciously brought it for mommie. Phoebe did not know that love is stronger even than grief, for at that moment Billy Louise was not thinking of mommie at all.

ITALIANS CRUSH TEUTON ATTACKS; ALLIES ARRIVE

Rome, Nov. 27.—Utter failure of violent enemy attacks in the mountains between the Brenta and Piave rivers was announced in the official statement.

At Tasson the Monte Rosa battalion of Italian Alpines annihilated strong enemy forces massed in attack.

"Enemy masses, supported by heavy artillery, again attempted to attack our positions between the Brenta and Piave rivers," the statement says.

Battalion Annihilated.

"On our left wing the enemy's efforts were directed against the Monte Pertica area. They were crushed promptly and a deadly and well-executed counter-attack on our part was made in answer to every fresh attempt by the enemy.

"At Tasson, the Monte Rosa battalion of Alpines annihilated its assailants.

"At our center, where the enemy's pressure was strongest, the Fifty-sixth division lived up to its enviable reputation.

Enemy Columns Mowed Down.

"Enemy columns, which with stubborn fury, attacked from the north-west and north in the direction of Monte Casinet, Col Del L'orso, Monte San Laro and Monte Spionin, were mowed down by our fire, repeatedly met by furious counter-attacks and definitely repulsed, leaving more than 200 prisoners in our hands.

"On our right the enemy attack started from the eastern slopes of Monte Monfenera. The assaulting waves were first checked by our artillery and afterward counter-attacked several times and repulsed by our gallant Alpines. A few score of prisoners were taken."

Berlin Claims Success.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—Only local engagements on the Italian front are reported in the statement from army headquarters. The Germans are said to have achieved success in these operations.

The announcement follows:

"In local mountain fighting we achieved successes and maintained them against Italian counter-attacks."

URGES WAR ON AUSTRIA

Senator Stone Wants Declaration Against Germany's Allies.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Declarations of war against Austria, Turkey, and Bulgaria, Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee declared seem "exceedingly advisable to simplify a situation now anomalous."

"We are in fact," said he, "now at war with Germany's allies."

"I have understood that some, if not a large number of Austrian troops have been on the western front. They may now, or soon, be actually fighting against the American forces. The two forces bring at each other. Any way, the Austrians are desperately engaged with Italy, which is one of our allies, just as much as France or England."

MRS. DE SAULLES TELLS HER STORY

Mincola, L. L., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Blanch E. De Saulles' recital on the witness stand of the last words spoken by her husband, John L. De Saulles, before she slew him on the night of August 3, formed one of the most tragic and dramatic scenes ever enacted in a courtroom.

The slender little Chilean held the roomful of spectators breathless as she nerved herself to speak. The stillness was broken only by a woman's sob. The answer finally came from bloodless lips.

"Mr. De Saulles said to me: 'You can't have him (little Jack). You can never have him.' I saw a look come in his face—I was stunned—I had a frightful pain in my head—"

She paused.

"I still seem to be hearing those words."

The earlier part of Mrs. De Saulles' testimony bore largely on the alleged dissipation of the $100,000 fortune by her husband. "When he found out how much money I had," she said, "he was very much disappointed and said to me: 'This is not very much.'"

In one instance the eyes of the witness flashed fire when her counsel asked her to tell what she knew of her husband's association with the duke of Manchester.

"We were taking dinner one afternoon," she said, "when De Saulles received a note from the duke of Manchester, asking him to go on a yachting trip. He went. Later I saw him on the yacht with the duke, and there were many people with them."

"Who were these people?" asked the counsel. "Were they men or women?"

"Girls," she replied.

"Which Wife?"

Very reluctantly she told of a trip to London, in which, she testified, she went to a hotel to find her husband.

"Who are you?" asked the clerk.

"I am his wife, Mrs. De Saulles," she said.

"Which one?" was the query.

"I felt deeply mortified," she said, "and later, when I barely missed coming over on the Lusitania on her last fatal trip, I said to myself I was sorry that I was not on that boat."

She told of being introduced to Jack De Saulles, early in 1911, and of his courtship. She became engaged to him in August, 1911, she testified.

A copy of Town Topics detailing the doings of the duke of Manchester was then introduced.

"Lady Godiva Stunt."

The story told of how Jack De Saulles assisted the duke in entertaining prominent dancers and devotees of the night life of Broadway, also of how one woman did the Lady Godiva stunt by a suns clothes plunge into the ocean. On another occasion, De Saulles showed her a card from a woman who was well-known to the lower world.

"I asked him if he knew her well," she said, "and he told me he did."

"Then I asked if he ever kissed her, and he said he did. That made me feel miserable."

"I was very unhappy," she added, "and asked him if he wouldn't try and do better."

Not Made to Settle Down.

"He said he could not help the kind of a life he was living, as he was not made to settle down."

She told him she wished to go home to Chile, and he permitted it, she said. "On their return," she declared, "De Saulles seemed delighted because the baby had been frightened by the wild animals."

When she asked the boy what happened, the witness said, the boy replied:

"The lions roared and Miss Jo and daddy laughed."

"I subsequently found out who this 'Miss Jo' was," she added. "She was Miss Joan Sawyer, the dancer."

The witness then told of mental suffering following this episode.

"When I asked my husband later about his relations with Joan Sawyer," she said, "he asked me if I thought I was the only woman who ever fell in love with him."

BANKER SHORT $300,000

Cause of Suicide of B. H. Barber of Polo, Ill., Revealed.

Dixon, Ill., Nov. 27.—A cause for the suicide of Bryant H. Barber, the Polo banker who leaped off the Grand Detour bridge November 16, was revealed when Robert L. Bracken, attorney for Lucia Barber, aged mother of Barber, and the Barber Brothers' bank, gave out the statement that the institution was insolvent and that $300,000 of the depositors' money was gone. There were 800 depositors in the bank, which was a private organization, a majority of them people of moderate circumstances. Edward H. Clopper, cashier, and Harry L. Spear, former postmaster of Polo, were appointed receivers under bond of $700,000. There is about $500,000 of good notes and currency on hand at the bank, with liabilities to depositors of $800,000. The bankers' body still lies at the bottom of Rock river.

PRESIDENT CUTS ALCOHOL IN BEER

Amount Will Be Limited to Three Per Cent Instead of Four Per Cent.

SAVES 20,500,000 BU. GRAIN

Order Will Cause Diversion to Food Users of Large Amount of Grain Now Employed in Brewing—Statement by Hoover.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Upon the recommendation of the food administration, President Wilson has taken steps to reduce the amount of grain used in the brewing of beer.

Henceforth the alcoholic content will be limited to a maximum of 3 per cent instead of about 4 per cent, as at present.

The amount of grain which may be used is about 70 per cent of the present average, meaning a net saving of 30 per cent. The same volume of beer may be brewed.

20,500,000 Bushels Saved.
The order will cause a diversion to food uses of approximately 20,500,000 bushels of grain now employed in brewing.

The food administration holds that the brewing of beer should not be abolished, because in such an event strong waters would be the only alcoholic beverages available outside of wines. The country has a supply of whisky, brandy and gin sufficient to last two or three years.

Food Administrator Hoover announced the action of the administration in the following statement:

"The president has approved the recommendation of the food administration that the alcoholic content of beer shall be reduced in the first instance to 3 per cent maximum and that the volume of grain to be used in brewing shall be reduced to an amount approximately 70 per cent of the amount of grain formerly used, enabling the brewing of the same volume of beer.

More Feed for Cattle.

"The food bill provides for the prohibition of the use of foodstuffs in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes, and the use of foodstuffs for the production of distilled drinks was stopped on September 8.

"There is, however, in the country from two to three years' supply of whisky, brandy and gin and other distilled liquors. The food bill provides that these liquors may be commandeered by the government if required for purposes of manufacture of alcohol for munitions.

Would Avoid Whisky Basis.

"On the other hand, the requirement for industrial alcohol in addition to the normal output from sawdust and other waste products is at present negligible.

"Those who wish brewing entirely suppressed should therefore bear in mind that, if such a course were pursued, the country would be placed on a whisky basis entirely and the amount of alcohol consumed would most probably increase.

"The desirability of saving all the grain used in brewing from the point of view of food conservation is therefore limited by the social question involved in the exclusive use of whisky."

SUFFERING CATS! GIVE THIS MAN THE GOLD MEDAL.

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezeone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out. This drug is a sticky ether compound, but dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezeone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

A lifetime of just ordinary vision, just seeing what goes on about us, is about all we can expect from a pair of normal eyes. Added strain like fine sewing, too much reading and poor light will use them up so much sooner. Wage-earners have to sacrifice many things, including eyes, but for absolute waste of vision there is no excuse.

LENINE WINS NEW SUPPORT

Second Russian Army Votes to Fight for Rebels.

Petrograd, Nov. 27.—A congress of the second army, with one dissenting vote, has adopted a resolution approving all the measures promulgated by the council of national commissioners, including the decree for an immediate armistice and peace and favoring the government of the Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates.

The resolution appeals to all soldiers not to support Premier Kerensky and the provisional government generally "against the people." The most striking passage in the resolution follows:

"The second army, with arms in its hands, will defend the authority of the Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates and the national committee. At the first order of the military revolutionary committee of the second army, which is clothed with full power, we will advance as one man against counter-revolutionists in the rear as well as at the front."

TALK TRUCE BY WIRELESS

Petrograd and Berlin Are Discussing Armistice Plan.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Petrograd and Berlin are in wireless communication. The Russian northern armies are reported to be becoming short of food, and it was rumored in Petrograd that another government had been organized by Socialists some near the capital city.

These facts were contained in advices received by the state department from Ambassador Francis at Petrograd.

It is assumed that the wireless communication relates to the proffered armistice and indicates that the bolshevik administration and the government of Germany are discussing the maximalist proposal. Officials, however, declined to comment on Ambassador Francis' report.

Danger for Russia was seen in the reported shortage of food in the northern armies.

RECEIVERS STATEMENT

drafts (estimated)	30,000 00
Personal indebtedness of Bryant H. Barber (estimated)	50,000 00
Disputed claim of Mary J. Barber	130,000 00

Total $1,191,666 03
Attention is called to the fact that while the disputed claim of Mary J. Barber is secured by a mortgage on a part of the Minnesota land, the claim is here considered as a liability and therefore its allowance in full will not change the balance above shown. On the other hand a disallowance or reduction of the claim will increase the value of the estate to that extent.

We are advised by Mr. William H. Hilger, who has an intimate knowledge of Mr. Barber's personal affairs, that there is an indebtedness of $265,000 in New York city which is secured by a deposit of high grade marketable securities exceeding that sum in value. This liability and security has not been included in the foregoing statement. Mr. Hilger confidently expects that an adjustment of this account will leave a substantial balance in favor of the estate.

FRENCH DECORATE U. S. MEN

Fifteen Soldiers Given War Cross for Bravery.

With the American Army in France, Nov. 27.—The French war cross has been conferred on the 15 American officers and men who were cited with their company by the French general commanding the sector in which the American were stationed at the time of the first German raid on the night of November 2-3.

The men were decorated and were informed that they must keep the medals in their possession, but must not wear them until congress gives its authorization. The ceremony was an impressive one.

The French general in referring to the action of this American company said:

"On the night of November 2-3 this company, which was in the line for the first time, met an extremely violent bombardment, despite which it seized arms and offered such stubborn resistance that the enemy, though numerically superior, was obliged to retire."

The general specially cited in the order of the day Corporal James D. Gresham and Privates Merle D. Hay and Thomas F. Enright, "who died bravely in hand-to-hand fighting with the enemy, who had penetrated the first line."

The others cited were Lieut. William H. McLaughlin, Lieut. R. O. Patterson, Lieut. E. F. Erickson, Serpt. John Arrowhead, Corporals David M. Knowles and Homer Givens, and Privates Charles Massa, William D. Thomas, George Hurd, Boyce Wade, Robert Winkler and John J. Jarvis.
